11.1a	Horticulture New Zealand 52267	V1pLWRP-1533 (definition of irrigation scheme)	DHL considers the submitters concern might be addressed by allowing for the establishment of nutrient management groups between properties (and/or farming entities) that allows them to share their individual nutrient loads.	Support in part

Prov.	Original submitter	Particular parts	Reasons	Support/Oppose
11.4	Mr Dougal Smith 52195	V1pLWRP-1116 (distribution of nutrients and trade)	DHL supports the potential “trade” of nutrient entitlements (through, for example, a nutrient management group).	Support in part
11.4	Horticulture New Zealand 52267	V1pLWRP-1405 (transfer of nutrients)	DHL supports the potential transfer of nutrients (through, for example provision being made for the establishment of nutrient management groups)	Support
11.4.14	McKavanagh Holdings Ltd 52276	V1pLWRP-1112 (sharing and nutrients)	DHL supports the potential transfer of nutrients (through, for example provision being made for the establishment of nutrient management groups)	Support in part
11.4.22	McKavanagh Holdings Ltd 52276 Irrigation New Zealand Inc 52278	V1pLWRP-1113 V1pLWRP-1061 V1pLWRP-1083 (inter alia transfers and farming enterprises)	DHL supports better provision being made to farming enterprises but also notes that the same outcome might be achieved through providing for the establishment of nutrient management groups. DHL also notes that a number of smaller developed irrigation schemes of which it is a member would benefit from being recognised as farming enterprises and/or being able to share their nutrients as nutrient management group(s).	Support in part
11.5	Central Plains Water Ltd 52239	V1pLWRP-402 (nutrient management groups)	DHL supports the establishment of nutrient management groups.	Support
