What do you want Environment Canterbury to do?

For some people heat pumps are not an option. Where people have a condition called "dry eye" the air needs to be heated naturally, best by a wood fire.

These fires burn renewable energy which is available in extreme weather conditions (eg snow, high wind or drought) Electricity may not be.

P10

Have a better appreciation of the benefits of heating other than from electricity. Clean burning wood fires should be promoted strongly as they have renewable energy and are cost efficient
