Freshwater Management Comments

Please provide any comments.

Two points that the document does not address and which, I believe, many people are interested and motivated about.

1. The subject of taking our fresh water and bottling it for sale. I've read several times that the companies doing this are paying us next to nothing for the water and that they are making big profits. I strongly disagree with this practice. If the companies are profiting from our water, then we should share in a significant percentage of that profit. 2. Some people claim that dairying is so profitable that we have to accept damage to our rivers. This is a short-term benefit that will cost us very badly in the long-term. Industries whose profitability cannot be sustained if they have to deal with all the consequences of their pollution are industries we cannot afford.
