Bring back the system that allowed people from any suburb to catch a bus into the city centre and then catch a bus from the city centre to any other suburb. It made public transport easy to use and work out how to get from a to b. The current system appears to link an assortment of suburbs and gets close to the city centre for example the 140 goes to Moorehouse Avenue but doesn't go into the exchange. It would seem more logical for it to go via the exchange considering it gets so close. And to encourage patronage no fare increases and even run a free bus day every 6-12 months so people who don't usually bus could give it a trial run.
