The three options suggested are undemocratic. Most worrying of all is the suggestion to reduce the total mobility subsidy - vulnerable groups should NOT be targeted as part of a cost saving scheme. Public transport is an investment with numerous social benefits and long-term economic benefits, additionally it is a crucial part of reducing transport-related carbon emissions

I am glad to see that a Climate Change Integration programme is on the table. However it sorely lacks any long term mitigation goals. We will have some form of climate change act in government soon and I need to know that ECan is prepared to be part of the solution, not part of the problem. Additionally, it needs to receive substantially more funding. I recognise that this may mean pulling funding from other projects or requesting additional funding elsewhere, and wouldn't it be better to spend funds mitigating now instead of spending funds desperately trying to bulwark our way through the myriad of impacts climate change will bring to Canterbury?

I support the shift of freight transport from road to rail and shipping as part of the Regional Transport programme. I am concerned about our contribution to National carbon emissions and this shift will help reduce our transport-related carbon emissions.
