Reasons comment:

I do not agree with profit making in this manner, insufficient research has gone into the impact on people and the environment. Also will set a disastrous precedent for future companies.

Consent comment:

Any company wanting to discharge its "waste" should seek to first recycle on site with out inpacting the surrounding environment in anyway. Businesses making a profit while using the surrounding environment in negative ways such as pollutin water ways and sea or taking to much waterout of aquifers should come under serious scrutiny an public hearings be undertaken. The kiwi way is to leave things better than you found them, not make profit an try to mop up the mess afterwards.
