Reasons comment:

As a geologist, I do support some mining activities, including those of high grade coal.

However I am strongly opposed to the expansion of the Bathurst Coal Mine, as it produces low grade subbituminous coal. New Zealand has vast opportunities for clean energy production from our nation's unique availability of hydro power, and the ever-improving technologies in the fields of wind and solar which we can further impliment. The continued use of coal fueled energy is unnecessary, damaging to our environment, and negates our workforces ability to adapt their skillsets towards industries which are more ethical and sustainable long term. Thanking you for your understanding of these critical aspects in your decisions. Regards, Jesse Barham
