Reasons comment:

Coal is a major contributor to carbon emissions, and therefore a major contributor to the climate crisis. In 2019, ECan declared a climate emergency, and agreed to act on it. I am aware that the RMA may come into play here, however, the Environmental Select Committee has recommended changes to the RMA to align the act with the Zero Carbon Bill. There are alternatives to coal - we need to be investing in them, and using them. This coal will mostly be used for drying milk powder. Dairying in itself is terrible for the environment, especially our water - the nitrogen run-off, and the use of water. We need water to drink. Let's not ruin our water eh! Bathurst is a terrible company, who has broken the rules many times (at least 20). Check your records on this. Stand up and do your job. Protect the environment.
