Reasons comment:

There is no justification for expansion of the thermal coal industry under a climate emergency and under the carbon emission targets and budgets due in 2021 under the Zero Carbon Act. Open cast mining requires enormous amounts of fossil fuels to remove the overburden and releases methane when the coal seams are exposed, let alone the emissions from burning the coal and all the environmental impacts of waterway and air pollution and precious wetland ecosystem destruction. The coal industry must be phased out as soon as possible and any expansion including this application must not proceed.
