Reasons comment:

Not withstanding how inappropriate It is to expand coal mining when we need to be reducing carbon emissions. Do not continue green-lighting Bathurst Resources' coal mining activities, despite the company being a repeat environmental offender. The mining company has been fined $18,000 after pleading guilty to polluting the habitat of New Zealand's most endangered freshwater fish, the Canterbury mudfish. Bathurst is a repeat environmental offender. Allowing any consent places our Toanga Like the Canterbury mud fish at even more risk.
