Reasons comment:

To continue coal mining in any form is antiquated and completely contrary to our goals in addressing climate change. To increase coal mining in any form is even worse. Climate action needs to be happening now. It is unthinkable that such action should be set back by the 20 to 35 years of the consent terms for which Bathurst is applying. Burning coal, however "cleanly", needs to stop now. This coal is used to support intensive dairying which is another factor contributing to climate change. Once a natural habitat is destroyed it is very hard to return it to its original condition with all forms of life which originally lived there.

Consent comment:

A complete refusal to grant any of the consents for which Bathurst Coal Limited is applying.
