Reasons comment:

The impact that the climate crisis that this project contributes to will be beyond anything that we can conceive today. It is clear that the effects will pail in comparison to what we've seen during the COVID-19 Pandemic. We owe our children and grandchildren the best possible world to live in, and it is clear that investing in coal actively disadvantages future generations. This expansion will force future generations to pay the price of the actions made with this decision. We can and must build a sustainable future for all future generations.
