Reasons comment:

This is a wetland habitat which serve as a home for a multitude of organisms that are part of the New Zealand eco system. The insects that live in these wetlands are food for native birds. It is a part of land that needs to be left alone so that our part of the planet can still breathe. Coal is a disgusting pollutant and it is time we stopped relying on it. Particularly if we cannot get it out of the ground in a clean way. We need to change to better source of energy for our future.
