Reasons comment:

Climate change commitments: Aotearoa New Zealand has committed to reducing our emissions to net zero by 2050. This requires that we stop expanding fossil fuel-intensive activities now. Allowing further expansion of this mine is counterproductive to our climate change goals. - Protect biodiversity: Coal mines can destroy native environments, habitats and ecosystems. As a nation, much of our flora and fauna is already endangered. We must not allow further loss of these unique habitats.
