Reasons comment:

There is no need for a quarry to commence in this proximity, so close to housing that people have brought in good faith unknowing that a quarry may exist in the future. I understand that this is a good revenue stream for the Race Course and for Taggart it reduces significant transport costs due to the location, it does not suit the neighbourhood of existing residents, it will create pollutions of dust, noise, potential flooding regardless of the controls proposed, significantly increased traffic in what are now residential areas (and who will pay for the roading when it deteriorates due to the increased loading) popular with walkers and cyclists in increasing numbers. Taggart should commit to finding another location for sourcing their materials that does not impinge on so many local residents who enjoy living in the current surrounds, financial benefits for so few should not trump the rights of many. Given that there is a vast plain of materials that Taggart require it should not be impossible for them to source from a location that agrees with all
