Which bus fare structure option would you like to see trialled?

As a student, it means that we don't have to worry about being able to afford to get places, especially if we need to get places (ex. The supermarket) to eat for the week. It's also ideal for disabled people as it decreases the financial burden on them while allowing them the ability to get out without worrying about having to pay and where they have to

Is borrowing and repaying through general rates the right approach for this regionally significant event?

Don't know

I don't have a preference
