Tell us more about why you support the selected bus fare option.

Everyone should have fair access to transport. As a university student money is tight and the expenses transport proposes I am limited to extra-curricular opportunities held on UC campus. For disabled people they have no other option but to use public transport, it is only right that they have fee fares. On other note, this could be a stepping stone to changing perspective on transport. It is the societal norm for each person to own a car, especially amongst youth today. This accounts for a large proportion of NZ carbon emissions. If public transport was made more accessible and feasible a "greener" approach the community, especially young people, will take up this option.
