Is borrowing and repaying through general rates the right approach for this regionally significant event?

Don't know

How else might we pay for our share of this work?

If flood protection work is to be spared across all rate payers due to the regional significance then public transport should likewise be funded across all ratepayers as it also benefits rural areas that are suffering from the impacts of climate change and will do so again.

How do you think recovery from flooding of this scale – events that impact state highways, bridges, rail and power for example – should be funded in the future?
